

Call for Expressions of Interest to Non Profit Societies

Alpha and Beta Family Housing Complexes

On May 1, 2007, BC Housing became the owner of two townhouse complexes at 204 Alpha Avenue and 205 Beta Avenue. The main objective for the purchase of these buildings is to protect and preserve existing affordable rental housing for families in Burnaby.

Since the purchase, BC Housing representatives have communicated openly and directly with the tenants, and attended public meetings to outline the future plans for the townhouses and to answer any questions. They have also responded to numerous inquiries from Burnaby citizens and people in the immediate neighbourhood about these family housing developments.

The future plans include identifying a non-profit housing society to manage the townhouse complexes and to maintain them as good, quality, affordable housing for families in need.

BC Housing is now issuing its formal Call for Expressions of Interest, inviting non-profit housing organizations to submit proposals for this purpose. Until an organization is selected through this process, BC Housing will continue to retain the existing property management company to manage the day-to-day operations. In addition, repairs and maintenance work have commenced as part of a three-year plan to ensure the buildings remain in good physical condition to provide safe, secure, affordable housing to families in need.

Expressions of Interest must be made in the prescribed format outlined in the Expressions of Interest document, and received by 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 1, forwarded to the attention of the Director, Regional Development, Fraser Region, at:
